

Crisis in Representation!

Are low-income Americans' legal needs being met?
Can middle income Americans afford representation?

How many litigants are representing themselves?

What is the impact on the justice system?

Recent studies performed separately by the American Bar Association Coalition for Justice, the Brennan Center for Justice and the Legal Services Corporation measure the effect that the economy has on the legal rights of indigent citizens.

The surveys show that

There is definitely a Crisis in Representation.

Join us as we analyze the results of the studies and develop strategies to respond to the blow the economic climate

Moderator:

Peter Koelling, Chicago, IL

Director, Chief Counsel, ABA Justice Center

Panelists:

Rebekah Diller, New York, NY

Deputy Director, Justice Program

Brennan Center for Justice

Victor M. Fortuno, Washington, DC

President and General Counsel

Legal Services Corporation

Friday,
August 6, 2010

2:00 — 3:30 PM

San Francisco
Marriott Hotel
Pacific Suite B,
4th Floor

PRESENTED BY

The ABA
Coalition for Justice and
the ABA
Judicial Division

FOR MORE INFORMATION

Contact Gilda Fairley
fairleyg@staff.abanet.org or at 312.988.5689