Dear Colleagues at the Department of Homeland Security,

We are pleased to submit this application titled, “Drama Club: Sparking Creative Problem-Solving for Violence Prevention,” for the Fiscal Year 2022 Targeted Violence and Terrorism Prevention (TVTP) Grant Program. Please see the following requested information about this proposal:

Entity Applying: Michigan State University, East Lansing, Michigan

Site Location: New York City, New York

Application Track: Innovation

Project Type: Objective 2

Funds Requested: $878,283

ND Grants EMW #: EMW-2022-GR-APP-00046

Abstract:

Studies have found links between adolescents’ delinquent behaviors and subsequent radicalization and violent extremism. To disrupt this pathway, the current proposal addresses objective 2 of the TVTP grant program via 1) an innovative intervention with 18- to 21-year-olds incarcerated at Rikers Island, New York City; and 2) a multimedia awareness campaign in collaboration with Pulitzer Prize finalist podcast, Ear Hustle, (b)(6)

(b)(6) At Rikers Island, this project aims to expand implementation of a theater-based intervention Drama Club, bolstered by an evaluation to assess the effectiveness of Drama Club in increasing social emotional skills, non-violent conflict resolution, and hope, while decreasing radicalization and violence among incarcerated and court-involved youth. We will raise community awareness about preventing radicalization to violence through award-winning multimedia outlets, Ear Hustle and the (b)(6) (b)(6) to tell the stories of system-involved youth to audiences around the country. This community-partnered project is grounded in the humanity of youth and a shared understanding that extreme violence is not inevitable. Prevention begins with understanding and then intervening on risk factors that lay the path to violent extremism, while promoting protective factors at individual and community levels.

Drama Club: Sparking Creative Problem-Solving for Violence Prevention

This proposal is in response to the Department of Homeland Security’s Fiscal Year 2022 Targeted Violence and Terrorism Prevention (TVTP) Grant Program. Research documents links between adolescents’ delinquent behaviors and subsequent radicalization and violent extremism. To disrupt this trajectory, we aim to evaluate the effectiveness of an innovative youth-focused intervention, Drama Club, in fostering social emotional skills, non-violent conflict resolution, and hope via a curriculum that aims to decrease radicalization and violence among 18 to 21 year-olds incarcerated at Rikers Island in New York City. Further, we aim to increase community-level awareness regarding the risk and protective factors associated with radicalization to violence through collaborative partnerships with Pulitzer Prize finalist podcast, Ear Hustle, and the <sup>(b)(6)</sup>

This proposal addresses objective 2 of the TVTP Grant Program: The local community has awareness of both the risk factors for – and the protective factors against - radicalizing to violence. As outlined in the Notice of Funding Opportunity (NOFO), outcomes associated with this objective include the development and implementation of programs that decrease risk factors for, and increase protective factors against, radicalization to violence. Our novel approach to violence prevention, outlined below, aligns with the innovation track.

Drama Club’s mission is to consistently care for youth – especially those who are incarcerated and court-involved – by creating space for them to thrive by way of a structured curriculum that culminates in a performance, using tenets of improvisational theater (or “improv” – described below) as their guide. Currently, Drama Club offers their programs at Rikers Island, Crossroads Juvenile Center, and Horizon Juvenile Center in New York City. For this proposal, we focus on Rikers Island, located in the East River between Queens and the Bronx, as one of the largest correctional facilities in the world, one of the three largest mental health providers in the United States, and the focus of scrutiny as being an especially violent environment for incarcerated youth and emerging young adults.

Our multidisciplinary team includes three nationally known violence prevention scholars with a combined 55 years of research and practice with at-risk youth and adults and award-winning journalists and artists making a difference for marginalized and minoritized communities. Beyond our experience, our approach is grounded in the humanity of youth and shared understanding that extreme violence is not inevitable. Prevention begins with understanding and then intervening on risk factors that lay a foundational trajectory to violent extremism, while promoting protective factors at the individual and community levels.

1. NEEDS ASSESSMENT

New York City is a uniquely poised site for investing in the prevention of radicalization and escalation to violent extremism. Individuals incarcerated at Rikers Island in the Robert N. Davoren Center (RNDC) and the Rose M. Singer Center (RMSC) at 18 to 21 years of age, were born shortly after a Boeing 767 crashed into the north tower of the World Trade Center in 2001. Research explicates that youth living in NYC after 9/11 often demonstrated symptoms of post-traumatic stress disorder (PTSD), anxiety disorders, and substance use disorders, associated with disruption(s) in their families and communities (Comer et al., 2010; Hoven et al., 2004; Wilson, Lengua, Meltzoff, & Smith, 2010; Wu et al., 2006). Youth previously exposed to other traumas (e.g., community violence, domestic violence) experienced even higher levels of PTSD than their same age counterparts without a history of trauma exposure (Mullett-Hume, Anshel, Guevara, & Cloitre, 2008). Evidence further suggests that repeated media driven exposure to the attacks were particularly powerful in shaping poor mental health outcomes for youth; particularly for youth born in the years following 9/11 to disrupted family systems (Hoven et al., 2004). NYC’s youth continue to face exposure to violent extremism. In 2008, an improvised explosive device detonated in front of a United States Armed Forces recruiting station in Times Square. In December 2014, two NYPD officers were murdered while on patrol by an individual expressing anti-police sentiment. In 2017, a Black man was murdered by a White Supremacist in Hell's Kitchen; the suspect indicated he intended to precipitate an apocalyptic "Racial World War." And in April of this year, a man shot ten people in a Brooklyn subway. He has been arraigned on federal charges of conducting a violent attack against a mass transportation system.

Research on cumulative trauma suggests repeated exposures – both direct and indirect – to community-level violence heighten sensitivity to subsequent collective traumas (Garfin, Holman, & Silver, 2015). From a global perspective, studies of genocide find that impacts of such violence are still evident generations later. Further, longtime exposure to war (an example of collective and cumulative trauma) is associated with anti-government attitudes and greater participation in non-institutionalized forms of civic participation (Freitag, Kijewski, & Oppold, 2017; Hong & Kang, 2015; Mollica, Brooks, Tor, Lopes-Cardozo, & Silove, 2013). It makes sense that repeated exposure of violent extremism among NYC youth launched a cycle of trauma transmission that, without buffering protective factors, has shaped their path and behavioral trajectories. This is where we intervene.

Target Population for Services

This project focuses on the implementation and evaluation of Drama Club, a non-profit organization fueled by volunteers, that aims to consistently care for youth – especially those who are incarcerated and court-involved – by creating space for them to thrive, using improvisational theater as their guide. Drama Club's curriculum is designed to strengthen social emotional skills, nonviolent conflict resolution, and hope, protective factors against radicalization and violence. Drama Club operates in the Robert N. Davoren Center (RNDC) and the Rose M. Singer Center (RMSC) at Rikers Island, facilities serving 18- to 21-year-old youth incarcerated in New York City. With this project, we aim to expand Drama Club's programs in Rikers Island by 50%. Further, we aim to raise awareness at the community level about the risk and protective factors relative to radicalization and violent extremism by storytelling – sharing the lived experiences of youth who are, or have formerly been, incarcerated – with our award-winning multimedia partners, Ear Hustle and the (b)(6)

As of May 5th, 2022, there were approximately 5,400 people jailed by the New York City Department of Correction, excluding cases that are sealed (NYCOpenData, 2022). Rikers Island is New York City's largest jail, housing a majority of those incarcerated. Almost 60% are Black and 50% have a BradH designation indicating they experience symptoms of mental illness (Vera Institute of Justice, 2022), a demographic trend that extends to Rikers Island where more than half of those incarcerated are Black and one-third Latinx.

Jails are important sites for violence prevention and intervention. While incarcerated people spend less time in jail than prison, even short stays in jail are associated with adverse outcomes (Zeng, 2020). Most people incarcerated at jails generally, and in New York City specifically, are those who have been charged but not yet convicted of a crime (i.e., pretrial), awaiting trial, sentencing, or dismissal (Scrivener, Tomascak, Bond, & Chauhan, 2021; Zeng, 2020). In 2019, the three most common charges for pretrial admissions in New York City jails were assault in the 3rd degree, assault in the 2nd degree, and weapon possession in the 2nd degree (Scrivener et al., 2021). The same year, pretrial admissions experienced an average 79 days of incarceration and more than 30% experienced stays of longer than a year (Hogan, 2021; Scrivener et al., 2021). Further, recent systemic delays in NYC have increased the length of time incarcerated. These delays are disproportionately experienced by youth and emerging young adults aged 18 to 24 (Close, Lu, Tomascak, Chauhan, & Bond, 2021).

It's been said that prisons and jails may be “especially fertile breeding grounds for radicalization and recruitment to terrorist/extremist organizations” (Carpenter, Levitt, Simon, & Zarate, 2010; Cilluffo, Cardash, & Whitehead, 2006; Jones, 2014; Useem & Clayton, 2009). Germane to this proposal, evidence of radical extremism in Western countries is on the rise and given that the United States has the highest incarceration rate in the world, it would be a mistake to overlook the potential for homegrown domestic radicalization – even during short stays in jails (Hafez & Mullins, 2015; Zahn, 2016). Indeed, the process by which an incarcerated individual adopts radical views can be understood relative to systemic influence – nested in the need for a sense of connectedness and belonging within a jail eco-system (Silke, 2014; Zahn, 2016). Liran Goldman, who studies motivation behind joining a terrorist group or gang, puts forth that opportunities are different for people who engage in more typical criminal behavior versus terrorists because criminal illicit behaviors come to a halt during incarceration. This doesn't hold for terrorists. In some instances, they thrive (Goldman, 2013).

The Estimated Number of People in the Target Population

This two-phase project focuses on 1) the implementation and evaluation of an intervention for youth ages 18 to 21, incarcerated at Rikers Island; and 2) multimedia efforts to raise awareness relative to the risk and protective factors for radicalization and violent extremism. These phases will occur in tandem. In phase 1, we aim to reach 220 incarcerated youth per year with the Drama Club intervention plus as many as 30 youth who have graduated from the Drama Club program. Our phase 2 awareness raising component of the project has the potential to reach 350,000 Ear Hustle listeners worldwide and (b)(6)

Recruitment and feasibility of our proposed sample size:

Drama Club will be implemented on a volunteer basis with young men at the Robert N. Davoren Center (RNDC), a facility that specifically houses 18- to 21-year-old men. Opened in 1972, the facility can house approximately 2,200 people (City of New York, 2022; Correction Officers' Benevolent Association, 2019). Until 2018, RNDC incarcerated 16- and 17-year-olds, too, until they were moved to detention centers because of New York's "Raise the Age" law that raised the age of criminal responsibility to 18 and prohibited the incarceration of minors in adult jails (Lippman, 2017). The Drama Club curriculum will also be implemented with young women ages 18 to 21 at the Rose M. Singer Center (RMSC) or Rosie's. This is an 800-bed facility, opened in 1988, that includes a 25-bed baby nursery (City of New York, 2022).

Drama Club currently operates two days per week at Rikers Island. We aim to expand pre-pandemic implementation by 50%. The table below (Table 1) presents Drama Club's engagement at Rikers Island from fiscal years (FY) 2019 to 2021. Note that the COVID-19 pandemic significantly impacted Drama Club's programs due to imposed temporary restrictions around who could enter the facilities (Hawks, Woolhandler, & McCormick, 2020).

	RNDC		RMSC

Other Programs for Youth & Young Adults in Jails

Programs for incarcerated individuals expanded in recent years as policies shifted away from the "tough on crime" approach of the 1990s. Currently, programs in jails and prisons aim to promote prosocial behavior and create opportunities for individuals to thrive post-incarceration. For example, in 2020, Congress lifted a 26-year ban on Pell Grant eligibility for incarcerated individuals, creating opportunities for higher education (Miller, 2021). We know that education can be a protective factor to buffer against recidivism. Unsurprisingly, taxpayers save 4 to 5 dollars for every dollar spent on educational programs in jails and prisons (Miller, 2021). Beyond recidivism, education programs have the potential to be a powerful counterbalance against structural factors that have created inequitable systems for marginalized and minoritized youth (Conway, 2020). To that end, jails and prisons also offer job skills programs, such as interview preparation or programs that link individuals to employment opportunities before they leave incarceration (Krienert, 2005; Smith et al., 2022). Health-focused interventions represent a third common domain. There is evidence regarding the acceptability and effectiveness of programs addressing substance use, mental health, sexual health, and aging, among others (Canada, Barranger, Robinson, Washington, & Mills, 2020; Johnson, Williams, & Zlotnick, 2015; Johnson & Zlotnick, 2008, 2012; Zlotnick, Johnson, & Najavits, 2009).

There are some notable gaps in the evidence base that underscore the unique contribution of this proposal. Empirical studies have largely been conducted in prisons. Those incarcerated in jails are distinct in that they are often held pretrial – charged but not convicted of a crime. With increasing delays in the system and inequities in the ability of some to post bail, length of jail stays is increasing causing tremendous instability for individuals and their families (Justice Center, 2012). This proposal is also distinct in that it focuses on 18 to 21-year-old youth, a developmental period where there is greatest risk for radicalization (Koehler, 2020). Drama Club fosters creative agency – providing opportunities for youth and young adults to use their voices and evolving non-violent problem-solving skill sets by way of “improv” to become emerging leaders – while simultaneously allowing them to lean into the concept of play – and the childhoods they may not have had the privilege to experience. Finally, while other programs have been implemented at RNDC and RMSC during Drama Club’s tenure, including other creative arts, leadership programs, and faith-based programs, Drama Club has become the program most rooted in Rikers since 2013 – because of a strong organizational foundation and a growing financial base (addressed in the sustainability section below) – pointing to the likely sustainability and impact of this project.

Engagement with Marginalized & Minoritized Populations

First, we work with youth and young adults who are involved with the criminal legal system. At the mercy of a system, currently rife with delays, youth are now spending longer periods of time in jail than ever before (Close et al., 2021). Those incarcerated by the NYC Department of Correction are primarily individuals of color, are from communities impacted by concentrated poverty, disadvantage, and disinvestment, and are quite often defined by mass incarceration (NYC Department of Correction, 2021).

Second, a significant proportion of the youth incarcerated in the NYC Department of Correction have disabilities. As mentioned above, half of those in NYC jails have a BradH designation indicating their documented history of mental illness. Individuals with a BradH designation tend to have longer length of stays, perhaps related to the greater likelihood of those with mental illness to have disciplinary infractions and require more medical interventions while incarcerated (James & Glaze, 2006). This group is also less likely to have the means to post bail, suggesting the contribution of poverty to incarceration outcomes (Justice Center, 2012). Beyond mental illness, data from the Bureau of Justice Statistics suggest that at least 40% of those incarcerated in jails are diagnosed with a disability including hearing, vision, cognitive, ambulatory, self-care, and independent living (Bronson, Maruschak, & Berzofsky, 2015). Related to intersections in racial and socioeconomic disparities in education, including the school-to-prison pipeline, those incarcerated in jails and prisons have lower functional literacy skills than their counterparts on the outside (Greenberg, Dunleavy, Kutner, & White, 2007). For this reason, we hypothesize that improvisational theater – an approach that engages all the senses – is an especially effective mechanism for developing important conflict resolution and related communication skills among this marginalized population.

Finally, we are particularly sensitive to the experiences of lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender, or queer (LGBTQ) youth who are incarcerated at Rikers Island. Indeed, national data suggest that LGBTQ people are incarcerated at three times the rate of the general population of the United States (Meyer et al., 2016). However, much of what we know about LGBTQ youth at Rikers Island has been documented in popular press rather than the scientific literature because of the level of violence experienced by this marginalized population. In 2021, NYC Mayor Bill de Blasio and New York Governor Kathy Hochul ordered the transfer of cisgender women and transgender people incarcerated at Rikers Island to facilities upstate, in the wake of staffing shortages and increasing violence at Rikers (Durkin, 2021). This sparked outcry as it meant greater separation from families for those most at risk in the system. Later that year, a gay man was found unresponsive in his cell because of a drug overdose (Cooper, 2021). These are just two examples of the challenges faced by LGBTQ youth at Rikers Island and the need to create inclusive spaces with Drama Club, even if youth do not feel safe to publicly share their sexual orientation or gender identity.

2. PROGRAM DESIGN

Problem Statement

Links Between Criminogenic Factors & Violent Extremist Behavior

A recent systematic review and meta-analysis of 127 studies found that criminogenic factors are the most important risk factors for radicalization (Wolfowicz, Litmanovitz, Weisburd, & Hasisi, 2021). Importantly, this proposal centers on incarcerated youth as an important focus for prevention and intervention to reduce escalation to greater forms of violence. Research finding strong links between criminogenic factors and radicalization have focused on the power of deviant peer networks, via theories of social learning, social control, and the manifestation of harmful subcultures (Holt, Freilich, Chermak, & LaFree, 2018; Thomas, McGarty, & Louis, 2014; Wojcieszak, 2010).

We know that risk factors, especially those experienced early in life, do not exist in isolation, rather they “catalyze a sequential process of cumulative disadvantage,” that increases vulnerability to violent extremism (Simi, Sporer, & Bubolz, 2016). Incarcerated youth are twice as likely to experience early life victimization relative to the general population (Coleman & Stewart, 2010); approximately 40% to greater than 90% of adjudicated youth have histories of abuse (Alexander, McCallum, & Thompson, 2021; Wasserman & McReynolds, 2011). Furthermore, many have experienced multiple forms of adversity, referred to as cumulative trauma or polyvictimization (Alexander et al., 2021; Finkelhor, Ormrod, & Turner, 2007).

It is not uncommon for incarcerated youth and dual-involved youth (i.e., those involved in the juvenile justice and child welfare systems), in particular, to experience anger and mistrust toward those who are tasked with protecting their best interests (Simmons-Horton, 2021). Feelings of institutional betrayal are compounded by simultaneous feelings of isolation and independence, which trigger cycles of behaviors that result in continued involvement with the criminal justice system (Modrowski, Chaplo, & Kerig, 2021; Simmons-Horton, 2021). Our proposal focuses on this critical developmental period, where THE developmental task is to test the limits of independence and, also, the developmental period when radicalization is most likely to take place (Koehler, 2020). Moreover, we are working with youth incarcerated in arguably the most violent jail in the country to examine risk and protective factors for radicalization and escalation to violent extremism while they are navigating an important developmental task in an environment not designed to support their growth in this way. The time is now.

Why Drama in an Important and Innovative Learning Tool for Incarcerated Youth

This proposal leverages an innovative approach to intervention for incarcerated youth – improvisation. Any skilled actor will tell you that acting is not simply about memorizing dialog or movements, but listening. When listening, we don’t plan every word, but co-create our response with our acting partner. We don’t move for the sake of movement, but when we are inspired by another persons' expressions, gestures, and movements. At its core, to learn to act is to critically engage with all your senses. It is to learn self-regulation, listening, decision making, negotiating space with others, and navigating boundaries. These are skills youth need regardless of their system-involvement, but incarcerated youth have limited opportunities to practice these skills when they are not able to freely exercise choice. Further, when taught by professionals in a jail or prison setting, students are offered the opportunity to engage instructors based on mutual respect as artists potentially reducing feelings of institutional betrayal.

Drama Club, specifically, is rooted in, and implemented in, a five rules of improv curricular model: 1) Say 'Yes, and...' (i.e., healthy risk-taking, trust); 2) No Violence (i.e., safety, emotion regulation); 3. Decide Who-What-Where (i.e., imagination, creativity); 4. Find the Conflict/Resolution (i.e., conflict resolution); and 5. Make Your Scene Partner Look Good (i.e., collaboration and team building). These rules reflect those critical developmental tasks necessary for youth to become prosocial adults despite social ecological systems rife with risk factors. Indeed, studies of theater in prison settings have shown that participation in such programs is correlated with improved scores on attitudinal scales of social competence, emotional control, hopefulness, and self-confidence (Littman & Silva, 2020). Researchers have also found that incarcerated adults who participate in theater skills programming show greater participation in academic and vocational programs (Brewster, 2014; Halperin, Kessler, & Braunschweiger, 2012).

Program Goals and Objectives

Goals: This community-partnered project involves the implementation and evaluation of a theater-based prevention intervention, Drama Club, among 18- to 21-year-olds incarcerated at Rikers Island in New York City. In alignment with objective 2 of the TVTP Grant Program, this project leverages innovative partnerships with two award-winning multimedia groups – Ear Hustle and the (b)(6) – to raise awareness in New York City and across the United States about the risk factors for and the protective factors against radicalizing to violence.

- Goal #1: To evaluate the effectiveness of the prevention intervention Drama Club in fostering social emotional skills, non-violent conflict resolution, and hope, while decreasing radicalization and violence among 18- to 21-year-olds incarcerated at Rikers Island.
- Goal #2: To spark shared understanding and mobilization among communities in New York City and across the country regarding radicalization and how to disrupt the path to extreme violence.

Objectives: The aforementioned goals will be achieved through the following objectives, focused on program implementation and dissemination activities.

- Objective #1a: To expand implementation of Drama Club at Rikers Island facilities (RNDC and RMSC) by 50% – or 48 classes – by the end of year one and sustain this new level of implementation in year two.
- Objective #1b: To engage 220 unique youth in Drama Club programming and evaluation survey data collection each year.
- Objective #2a: To conduct interviews with as many as 50 youth who have participated or are currently participating in the Drama Club program.
- Objective #2b: To reach 100,000 people per multimedia product developed from the stories collected during Ear Hustle and (b)(6) engagement with the project.

Theories Underpinning our Strengths-Based Prevention Strategy with Incarcerated Youth

We draw on Empowerment theories. Empowering processes provide opportunities to increase capabilities and confidence, learn and practice skills, exert self-control, and influence decision-making (Zimmerman, 2000). A process is empowering if it helps youth develop the cognitive skills necessary to critically understand their environments and become independent problem solvers and decision makers (Zimmerman, 2000). Empowerment is a key strategy for enabling individuals to independently choose behaviors that are conducive to healthy relationships (Ehrhardt, Sawires, McGovern, Peacock, & Weston, 2009; Fleming-Castaldy, 2015), thus empowerment models are apt strategies that enable youth to adopt non-violent health relationship behaviors.

Social Cognitive Theory (SCT) emphasizes the dynamic interplay between an individual's behavior in their social environment and highlights the capacity for communities to change the climate and culture to benefit an entire group (Bandura, 1986). We will apply the following theoretical concepts from the SCT to our evaluation: Observational Learning: Drawing upon peer modeling of non-violent behavior, Drama Club's Improv based curriculum will ensure that incarcerated youth are exposed to examples of healthy relationships and non-violent role models. Self-efficacy: The curriculum and subsequent performance (after completing the curriculum) aims to increase the ability to self-regulate, provide a sense of self-efficacy (e.g., beliefs about personal ability), and to endorse non-violence while not diminishing social standing. Collective efficacy: This concept emphasizes the beliefs of a group that they can perform group actions to bring about social change. The culminating performance of Drama Club will build collective efficacy to influence the culture and climate at Rikers – to support non-violence in conflict resolution situations – nested in interpersonal exchange/narratives via an improv process. By integrating empowerment theory with Social Cognitive Theory, we posit that the Drama Club's curriculum has a strong theoretical backing that increases its likelihood for success as a primary prevention strategy to prevent multiple forms of violence and aggression. Implementing Drama Club's curriculum and fully integrating empowerment theory with Social Cognitive Theory, the proposed evaluation has a strong theoretical backing that increases its likelihood for success as a primary prevention strategy to prevent multiple forms of violence.

Social Ecological Model. The Social Ecological model is also helpful framework to understand Drama Club inasmuch as it acknowledges the dynamic interplay between factors as influences in health and wellbeing (Dahlberg & Krug, 2002). It is also hypothesized that the effects of environmental risk factors may be moderated by protective factors at multiple social-ecological levels (e.g., individual, relationship, community, and policy). From an ecological perspective, to realize significant public health impact, prevention programs must target change at more than one level of social influence (Sallis, Owen, & Fotheringham, 2000). Prevention must also attend to how contextual factors (e.g., various environments, access to programmatic opportunity) contribute to variation in risk across communities and within populations.

Drama Club Evaluation Strategy

We aim to evaluate the effectiveness of the Drama Club curriculum in fostering social emotional skills, non-violent conflict resolution, and hope, while decreasing radicalization and violence among 18- to 21-year-olds incarcerated at Rikers Island in New York City. While Drama Club has been providing services for incarcerated and court-involved youth since 2013, the program has never been formally evaluated. Data collected via this project are critical to document the profound difference this program has and can make for youth and young adults incarcerated in our country's jails, including intervening early to prevent radicalization and escalation to violent extremism.

Survey Data Collection: Prior to our evaluation, we will work with the Michigan State University Institutional Review Board, the NYC Department of Corrections, and the Department of Homeland Security to secure human subjects approval for all study procedures. We will conduct anonymous pre-post surveys with youth participating in Drama Club programming at RNDC and RMSC, Rikers Island. Specifically, youth will complete pencil and paper surveys, administered by the research team, on day one of the program – prior to participation in the Drama Club curriculum. The research team will then return to Rikers Island the week after the final cumulative performance for youth to complete post-intervention surveys. Surveys will assess: a) self-regulation (Difficulties in Emotion Regulation Scale, Short Form (Kaufman et al., 2016)), b) non-violent conflict resolution (Self-Report Delinquency Scale (Elliott & Huizinga, 1989)); c) self-efficacy (Generalized Self Efficacy scale (GSE), Schwarzer & Jerusalem, 1995); d) empowerment (Self-report measures for leadership behavior, community engagement, leadership efficacy, and self-esteem (Eisman et al., 2016); e) hope (Hopelessness Scale for Children (Kazdin, French, Unis, Esveldt-Dawson, & Sherick, 1983); and f) connectedness (Self-report measure related to sense of belonging and support). Given the context, surveys must be brief (10 to 15 minutes) and tailored to a third grade reading level, thus some measures/scales will need to be adapted or modified. We cannot provide cash incentives to participants to thank them for their time. Instead, will offer graphic novels that work across all reading levels and languages. We will abide by institutional safety protocols for survey administration, including appropriate distance for privacy and collection of survey writing instruments. Survey participation will be strictly voluntary, participants may skip any questions they prefer not to answer, and surveys will be administered at a mutually agreed upon time and place. Any disclosure of potential harm to self or others will be immediately relayed to Rikers Island staff before the research staff leaves the premises.

Data Analysis & Power: Given the holistic nature of the Drama Club intervention, we hypothesize a latent growth model that focuses on change in our latent constructs. The proposed design is a latent pre-post design with the coefficient kappa (latent difference) as its critical parameter. Realistically, we assume that the effect of the predictor variable is in general small (Cohen's  $d = .2$ ). Based on the usual correlation coefficients between the indicator variables in other research contexts, we assume a reliability of .64 for each indication (equivalent to a .8 factor loading). The critical element for the power analysis is to detect the difference in the latent mean score between pre and post measurement where the latent score for the pretest is standardized (mean = 0, SD = 1).

In structural equation modeling, the test statistic follows a  $\chi^2$  distribution. In the specified explicitated model, with two separate groups depicted above, we estimate a model with  $df = 15$ . Under  $H_0$  (no change in latent mean score over time) the  $\chi^2 = 0$  by definition. If the alternative hypothesis is true (here: difference .2 in latent means between both groups per cycle), we will correctly reject the null hypothesis if the  $\chi^2$  is above the critical value for  $\alpha = .05$ . Ideally, we want to reject a wrong Null with a probability of at least 80%. This requires the calculation of a non-central  $\chi^2$  distribution with its additional non-centrality parameter  $\lambda$  that indicates the shift of the distribution to the right from its corresponding central distribution. The non-centrality parameter can be calculated asymptotically by specifying the alternative hypothesis estimated for a data set that perfectly reproduces the Null (=no change in mean scores for all three indicators) with a sample size of  $N = 200$ , the noncentrality parameter is estimated at  $\lambda = 5.591$ . The right-hand side of this distribution at the  $\alpha = .05$  point covers 76.41% of the distribution. Therefore, we would achieve 80% power with a sample size of 220.

3. ORGANIZATION & KEY PERSONNEL

Our Team Science approach is a collaborative cross-cutting multi-disciplinary model to scientific inquiry that focuses on setting clear expectations, defining roles in conducting research, promoting and modeling effective communication, and building on shared goals and vision.

Key Personnel

SPARK Research for Social Change, Michigan State University School of Social Work

- Dr. Heather McCauley (Contact PI): Dr. McCauley is a social epidemiologist and violence prevention researcher with more than a decade of experience evaluating violence prevention programs in schools, clinics, prisons, and communities. She currently is principal investigator of a $1.6 million Centers for Disease Control & Prevention cooperative agreement to design and evaluate community-level strategies to prevent child sexual abuse. She is also co-investigator on more than $5 million in federal funding focused on policies and programs for violence prevention. Her role as Contact PI is described below in Section 5.
- Dr. Joanne Smith-Darden (Co-PI): Dr. Smith-Darden is an Associate Professor and the Ruth T. Koehler Endowed Professor in Children's Services at Michigan State University. She holds doctorates in Developmental Psychology and Social Work. As an applied state and federally funded violence researcher, she has significant expertise related to how early relational experience lays the foundation for pro-social or maladaptive relationship behaviors. Dr. Smith-Darden possesses significant expertise in building community partnerships and implementing community engaged research projects. Her research has been consistently funded at the university and state level as well as by the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention and the National Institutes of Health since 2012. Her research portfolio includes over $10M in funding serving as PI on four (4) U01s, Co-I on one (1) U01 and an R03. Her role as Co-PI is described below in section 5.

Hunter College's Silberman School of Social Work

- Dr. Adam Brown (Co-Investigator): Dr. Brown is a clinical social worker and violence prevention researcher focused on the etiology of violent behavior among male youth. He is currently the principal investigator of a two-year, mixed-methods study of masculinity norms among adolescent males living in a residential treatment facility for sexually abusive behaviors. His role as Co-Investigator is described below in Section 5.

Community Partners:

- Drama Club NYC: Explicated throughout the narrative – previously and below, Drama Club was founded in 2013 and offers improvisational theater and mentorship as social emotional learning tools to improve the overall well-being of youth. They describe themselves as a mobile drama club, bringing classes into juvenile detention centers, jails, and community centers throughout the NYC.
- Ear Hustle from PRX’s Radiotopia: Ear Hustle launched in 2017 as the first podcast created and produced in prison, featuring stories of the daily realities of life inside California’s San Quentin State Prison, shared by those living it. Co-founded by Bay Area artist Nigel Poor alongside Earlonne Woods and Antwan Williams — who were incarcerated at the time — the podcast now tells stories from inside prison and from the outside, post-incarceration. In 2019, Rahsaan “New York” Thomas joined Ear Hustle as a co-host inside San Quentin. In 2020, Ear Hustle was named a finalist for a Pulitzer Prize in audio reporting for bringing audiences “a consistently surprising and beautifully crafted series on life behind bars.” In 2021, Ear Hustle received an Alfred I. duPont-Columbia University Award for “shatter[ing] the myths about serving time and what happens afterwards.” Ear Hustle has also received honors from the Third Coast International Audio Festival, the Moran Center for Youth Advocacy, and is a two-time Peabody Award nominee.

4. SUSTAINABILITY

The relationship between capacity building and sustainability is interconnected and complex. Widely respected empirically based violence prevention practices designed to bring about social change, initially embraced with stakeholder enthusiasm, often “fade away” after the program evaluation is complete and the funding stream ends. Over their career, Drs. McCauley and Smith-Darden have heard from invested stakeholders that, while the spirit is willing, the organizational capacity and requisite work burden and necessary funding exceeds their respective bandwidths. Too much work would be required for already overburdened organizations/positions – they simply don’t have the time or the resources to carry out and carry forward, even the most celebrated and significant synergistic collaborative efforts. This is not the case with Drama Club.

The proposed project aligns perfectly with the larger mission of Drama Club as they sit uniquely poised and ready to continue to expand their programmatic reach, organizational capacity, and financial base without federal dollars beyond the scope of this grant. To date, the only national organization to contribute (a total of $30K since 2013), is the National Endowment for the Arts. As Josie Whittlesey, founder of Drama Club states that, since their inception in 2013, their operating budget comes in equal parts from; state and local government funding, foundation funding, and from the generosity of family and friends – convinced by her passion, commitment, and persuasive “begging” to invest in her vision to provide and facilitate individual voice to reduce violence through drama and play.

Josie and her team demonstrate their tenacity and moxie evidenced by their ability to leverage and build on an initial $44K investment to a projected $972K operating budget for 2022. They have successfully expanded their reach throughout all five of the New York boroughs, are currently active in four, and serve approximately 400+ NYC youth annually. Indeed, youth, once incarcerated, have become model success stories and are now integral to the Drama Club team leadership via an innovative and viable apprenticeship opportunity. Strategic organizational meetings with staff and Board members occur routinely as they cast their gaze upstate, across the state, and nationally – inasmuch as Drama Club aims to expand their program to youth detention centers and community centers for at-risk youth throughout the United States. Demonstrating organizational capacity, Finance and Operations at Drama Club state that Drama Club is recognized by New York City’s City Council, Administration of Children Services, Department of Correction, Department of Probation, the Department of Youth and Community Development, and New York City’s Department of Education. Drama Club is organizational partners with Carnegie Hall, NeON Arts, The Door, The Wooster Group, Rattlestick Theater, Showtime, and Youth Inc. Drama Club partners with Columbia University to host MSW Interns. Significant funders include Pinkerton Foundation, The Pierre and Tana Matisse Foundation, and The Kenworthy-Swift Foundation. Drama Club’s 10-member Board of Directors meet quarterly to review Finances, Fundraising Strategies and Organizational Governance. Drama Club has a “give get policy” of $5,000 annually per member. Further, Ear Hustle (the Pulitzer Prize nominee and winner of PRX/Radiotopia’s Pod Quest competition) and (b)(6)

(b)(6) will partner to further raise awareness of Drama Club’s innovative approach to violence prevention at the community and societal level – and will serve as storytelling platforms to bolster and broadcast Drama Club’s hard-earned success. This is where we come in – the proposed evaluation will provide the critical data needed to sustain momentum and expand reach relative to scope, breadth, and program efficacy – and inform service requests/replication of the model. While we acknowledge that sustainability must stand on its own merit, these data can be used to further our mutually beneficial work and provides talking points for larger “asks” at the partnership, corporate, foundational, and federal levels for broader dissemination and implementation. In addition, the proposed partnerships between the research team and Ear Hustle, in particular, will serve as a percolator, or think tank of sorts, that will also raise the Drama Club profile, thereby increasing funding opportunities from individual contributors, individual states, and specifically child welfare, juvenile justice, and Departments of Corrections will be more likely to fund Drama Club (e.g., providing in-kind support by way of staff and space allocation) after program efficacy is demonstrated. To be clear, Drama Club will thrive without federal support.

By and large, Rikers Island relies on volunteer programming. Drama Club is one of the sustainable few that has grown and flourished through several challenges – including the inevitable change in political winds as well as surviving the COVID pandemic. Why is this so important? It is a sad and unfortunate reality that minoritized and marginalized youth will continue to be criminalized and incarcerated. Rising from concentrated disadvantage, many – particularly youth of color, those in foster care, LGBTQ youth, youth with disabilities, mental health, and substance abuse challenges, are repeatedly failed by our system. They face almost insurmountable odds of succeeding and are at risk of repeating a cycle of neglect and exposure to multiple forms of violence. Quite often, jails and prisons are the safest environments available to them – which makes them prime targets for potential violent radicalization and violent extremism. The time to act is now.

5. BUDGET DETAIL & NARRATIVE

Budget Worksheet Budget	Federal Request
Category
Personnel	$136,463
Fringe Benefits	$ 38,405
Travel	$ 38,322
Supplies	$ 3,200
Contractual	$183,332
Other	$330,000
Total Direct Costs	$729,722
Indirect Costs	$148,561
TOTAL PROJECT COSTS	$878,283

Personnel:

Dr. Heather McCauley will serve as Co-Principal Investigator and as the “Contact PI” for the project. She requests funds for effort of 25% of her Academic Year (AY) salary for both years. Considering a projected base salary of $103,932 and a 2% annual inflation factor, Dr McCauley’s costs are: Year 1 - $25,983; Year 2 - $26,503; TOTAL - $52,486. Dr McCauley will oversee all aspects of the project, including work scope and deliverables. She will oversee implementation of the program and evaluation, as well as guide the overarching strategy for the multimedia awareness raising phase of the project. She will be responsible for Institutional Review Board submissions and assist with capacity building within agencies to support sustainability of programs.

Dr Joanne Smith-Darden will serve as Co-Principal Investigator. She requests funds for effort of 25% of her Academic Year (AY) salary for both years. Considering a projected base salary of $103,888 and a 2% annual inflation factor, Dr Smith-Darden’s costs are: Year 1 - $25,973; Year 2 - $26,492; TOTAL: $52,465. As Co-PI of the current proposal, Dr. Smith-Darden will collaborate with Dr. McCauley to oversee management of the team and project activities. She will lead coordination of and communication with the team’s community partners. She will further assist with capacity building within agencies to support sustainability of programs.

Project Coordinator: Funds are requested for this hourly labor position for 520 hours/year at a base rate of $30/hr and a 2% annual inflation factor. The project coordinator will be responsible for organizing travel, assisting with IRB submissions, assisting with the management of data collection at Rikers Island, and helping our community partners navigate logistics relevant to the awareness raising phase of the study. Costs are as follows: Year 1 - $15,600; Year 2 - $15,912; TOTAL: $31,512

Total Personnel: $136,463

Fringe Benefits:

Michigan State University policy implements a Specific Identification (SI) fringe benefits system, in which fringe rates are a function of salary level and vary depending on salary for full time faculty and staff. Under this system, costs are identified into four categories and accounts will be charged only to the extent that an employee receives those benefits. Categories are: Retirement; FICA; Other/Miscellaneous; and Health Costs. MSU charges fringe benefits as direct costs and charges sponsors for actual costs only.

Dr McCauley’s Specific-ID fringe rate for Year 1 is 34.06% and for Year 2 is 34.52%. Her costs are: Year 1 - $8,850; Year 2 - $9,149; TOTAL - $17,999. Dr Smith-Darden’s Specific-ID fringe rate for Year 1 is 34.07% and for Year 2 is 34.53%. Her costs are: Year 1: $8,848; Year 2:

$9,147; TOTAL: $17,995. Fringe rate for the project coordinator is capped at 7.65%, for Social Security and FICA: Year 1: $1,193; Year 2: $1,217; TOTAL: $2,410.

Total Fringe: $38,405

Travel:

Funds for grant-related domestic travel are requested as enumerated below:

TOTAL TRAVEL:				$16,824	$21,498	$38,322

This project will be implemented at Rikers Island in New York City. Drs. McCauley & Smith-Darden will travel to New York City six times per year to oversee program implementation and data collection for the duration of the project. Conference travel is to support dissemination of knowledge gained from the project in a top-tier conference environment with other scholars and stakeholders.

Supplies:

Supply expenditures for printed surveys and a laptop computer are enumerated below:

Supplies	Year 1	Year 2	TOTAL
Paper survey printing	$1,000	$1,000	$2,000
Laptop	$1,200		$1,200

Total Supplies: $3,200

Contractual:

Hunter College, a constituent college of City University of New York, will be a sub awardee on the project. Dr Adam Brown will serve as the PI for Hunter College and he will be a Co-Investigator on the overall project. Hunter College requests funds for Dr Brown's salary and fringe, plus Travel, Supply, and Indirect costs. These costs are presented, below.

Personnel:

Dr. Adam Brown will serve as Co-Investigator. He requests funds for 1.35 effort of his AY salary for both years, at $22,204 salary requested in each year of the project. Dr. Brown will oversee the training and supervising of the New York City arm of the project, including oversight of local contractors/consultant. In addition, Dr. Brown will contribute to peer-reviewed articles and presentation at conferences. This equates to 450 hours for the 2 years.

TBN, Research Coordinator: Dr. Brown requests funds for 0.50 FTE, $42,500 salary, for a NYC-based research coordinator to oversee scheduling of events, data collection and analysis. This equates to 2,000 for the 2 years.

Fringe Benefits:

Each grant is charged a flat percentage of each employee's gross annual wages, based upon their classification. The percentages represent our best estimate of the actual costs of providing benefits to each employee. Faculty Release Fringe Benefit Rate: 51.7%; Research Coordinator PT Fringe Benefit Rate: 8.34%.

Travel:

Domestic travel is budgeted in each year of the project. $1,500 is budgeted in each year for the PI's travel to Michigan State University. An additional $3,500 is budgeted in Year 2 for the PI's conference travel.

Supplies:

Supplies are budgeted at $1,250 in each year of the project for the purchase of recording and storage media and other miscellaneous project-related materials.

Indirect Costs:

Hunter College has a USDHHS-negotiated indirect cost rate of 26% against modified total direct costs.

Total Direct Costs:	$145,502
Total Indirect Costs (@26%) :	$37,830
Total Costs:	$183,332

Other Direct Costs:

Other costs include funds for Community Partners, as follows:

Community Partner Non-Discretionary Funds				Year 1	Year 2	TOTAL
Drama Club				$80,000	$80,000	$160,000
(b)(6)				$40,000	$40,000	$80,000
Ear Hustle				$40,000	$40,000	$80,000

Community Partners

As outlined in the notice of funding opportunity, “applicants must propose to implement one or more prevention capabilities during the period of performance and must demonstrate how any proposed research will support that implementation.” As with all our community-partnered projects, we offer non-discretionary funds because we recognize that working with researchers is not something they are compensated for in other ways. In this case, the grant call requires us to implement a program. Thus, we provide non-discretionary funds to incentive this researcher-practitioner partnership. The second component of this grant is awareness raising, aligning with Department of Homeland Security’s 2nd objective of the TVTP grant program: The local community has awareness of both the risk factors for – and the protective factors against - radicalizing to violence. We have built a strong researcher-practitioner partnership with Ear Hustle from PRX’s Radiotopia and are in final conversations with the (b)(6)

(b)(6) These partners will raise awareness about risk and protective factors for radicalization and violence in New York City. Again, to meet this aim, we need to build a mutually beneficial partnership. We could not achieve our aims without them, as they are the trusted messengers in the communities they reach.

A description of each partner is below:

- Drama Club NYC: This is the implementing organization for the intervention at Rikers Island; they have a long-standing relationship with the New York City Department of Correction. We offer non-discretionary funds to support their implementation efforts, including expanding their current model by 50%. We further offer these non-discretionary funds to support project staff to participate in the evaluation component of the project as it is critical they are working closely with the research team on these efforts. We have allocated $160,000 to be distributed over the two-year project period.
- Ear Hustle from Radiotopia at PRX: An objective of the DHS Violence and Terrorism Prevention (TVTP) Grant Program is to raise awareness relative to radicalization and escalation to domestic violent extremism. Ear Hustle is a Pulitzer Prize finalist podcast and two-time Peabody Award nominee founded at the San Quentin State Prison in San Francisco. Their work has been downloaded more than 60 million times across the globe. We offer $80,000 in non-discretionary funds for their participation in this project. They will be traveling to New York City to conduct interviews with youth who have participated in the Drama Club program and correctional officers who work with youth in this setting. They will establish recording studio space in New York City and dedicate staff time to producing Ear Hustle episodes on the stories that emerge in this project.

Additionally, $5000/Year, $10,000 total is requested for human subject payments. We are not able to provide individual cash incentives for youth at Rikers Island. Instead, we can provide incentives in the form of graphic novels. With an estimated sample size of 250 participants, we have allocated $20 per participant for the purchase of graphic novels in both years.

Total Other Costs: $330,000

Indirect Costs:

Michigan State University has a USDHHS-negotiated Indirect Cost Rate of 56.5% of modified direct costs for Federal research projects. However, MSU's off-campus indirect rate of 26% will apply to this proposal. The MSU Rate Agreement is attached as a separate document.

Modified total direct costs, consisting of all direct salaries and wages, applicable fringe benefits, materials and supplies, services, travel and up to the first $25,000 of each subaward (regardless of the period of performance of the subawards under the award). Modified total direct costs shall exclude equipment, capital expenditures, charges for patient care, rental costs, tuition remission, scholarships and fellowships, participant support costs and the portion of each subaward in excess of $25,000. Other items may only be excluded when necessary to avoid a serious inequity in the distribution of indirect costs, and with the approval of the cognizant agency for indirect costs.

SECTION II: SPECIAL REMARKS

TREATMENT OF FRINGE BENEFITS:

The fringe benefits are specifically identified to each employee and are charged individually as direct costs. The directly claimed fringe benefits are listed below.

TREATMENT OF PAID ABSENCES

Vacation, holiday, sick leave pay and other paid absences are included in salaries and wages and are claimed on grants, contracts and other agreements as part of the normal cost for salaries and wages. Separate claims are not made for the cost of these paid absences.

OFF-CAMPUS DEFINITION: For all activities performed in facilities not owned by the institution and to which rent is directly allocated to the project(s) the off campus rate will apply. Grants or contracts will not be subject to more than one F&A cost rate. If more than 50% of a project is performed off-campus, the off-campus rate will apply to the entire project.

FRINGE BENEFITS:

FICA

Retirement

Disability Insurance

Tuition Remission

Worker's Compensation

Unemployment Insurance

Health Insurance

Dental Insurance

Life Insurance

Longevity Pay Increments

Post Retirement Benefits

Unused Leave Payments at Retirement or Termination

Your next F&A cost proposal for fiscal year ending June 30, 2022 is due in our office by December 31, 2022.

Equipment means tangible personal property (including information technology systems) having a useful life of more than one year and a per-unit acquisition cost which equals or exceeds the lesser of the capitalization level established by the non-Federal entity for financial statement purposes, or $5,000.

ORGANIZATION: Michigan State University

AGREEMENT DATE: 5/28/2019

SECTION III: GENERAL

A. LIMITATIONS:

The rates in this Agreement are subject to any statutory or administrative limitations and apply to a given grant, contract or other agreement only to the extent that funds are available. Acceptance of the rates is subject to the following conditions: (1) Only costs incurred by the organization were included in its facilities and administrative cost pools as finally accepted; such costs are legal obligations of the organization and are allowable under the governing cost principles; (2) The same costs that have been treated as facilities and administrative costs are not claimed as direct costs; (3) Similar types of costs have been accorded consistent accounting treatment; and (4) The information provided by the organization which was used to establish the rates is not later found to be materially incomplete or inaccurate by the Federal Government. In such situations the rate(s) would be subject to renegotiation at the discretion of the Federal Government.

B. ACCOUNTING CHANGES:

This Agreement is based on the accounting system purported by the organization to be in effect during the Agreement period. Changes to the method of accounting for costs which affect the amount of reimbursement resulting from the use of this Agreement require prior approval of the authorized representative of the cognizant agency. Such changes include, but are not limited to, changes in the charging of a particular type of cost from facilities and administrative to direct. Failure to obtain approval may result in cost disallowances.

C. FIXED RATES:

If a fixed rate is in this Agreement, it is based on an estimate of the costs for the period covered by the rate. When the actual costs for this period are determined, an adjustment will be made to a rate of a future year(s) to compensate for the difference between the costs used to establish the fixed rate and actual costs.

D. USE BY OTHER FEDERAL AGENCIES:

The rates in this Agreement were approved in accordance with the authority in Title 2 of the Code of Federal Regulations, Part 200 (2 CFR 200), and should be applied to grants, contracts and other agreements covered by 2 CFR 200, subject to any limitations in A above. The organization may provide copies of the Agreement to other Federal Agencies to give them early notification of the Agreement.

E. OTHER:

If any Federal contract, grant or other agreement is reimbursing facilities and administrative costs by a means other than the approved rate(s) in this Agreement, the organization should (1) credit such costs to the affected programs, and (2) apply the approved rate(s) to the appropriate base to identify the proper amount of facilities and administrative costs allocable to these programs.

Implementation & Measurement Plan

Goals: This community-partnered project involves the implementation and evaluation of a theater-based prevention intervention, Drama Club, among 18- to 21-year-olds incarcerated at Rikers Island in New York City. In alignment with objective 2 of the TVTP Grant Program, this project leverages innovative partnerships with two award-winning multimedia groups – Ear Hustle and the (b)(6) – to raise awareness in New York City and across the United States about the risk factors for and the protective factors against radicalizing to violence.

- Goal #1: To evaluate the effectiveness of the prevention intervention Drama Club in fostering social emotional skills, non-violent conflict resolution, and hope, while decreasing radicalization and violence among 18- to 21-year-olds incarcerated at Rikers Island.
- Goal #2: To spark shared understanding and mobilization among communities in New York City and across the country regarding radicalization and how to disrupt the path to extreme violence.

Objectives: The aforementioned goals will be achieved through the following objectives, focused on program implementation and dissemination activities.

- Objective #1a: To expand implementation of Drama Club at Rikers Island facilities (RNDC and RMSC) by 50% – or 48 classes – by the end of year one and sustain this new level of implementation in year two.
- Objective #1b: To engage 220 unique youth in Drama Club programming and evaluation survey data collection each year.
- Objective #2a: To conduct interviews with as many as 50 youth who have participated or are currently participating in the Drama Club program.
- Objective #2b: To reach 100,000 people per multimedia product developed from the stories collected during Ear Hustle and (b)(6) engagement with the project.

Inputs and resources, activities, and outputs are reflected in the following logic model for Drama Club, our evaluation, and our awareness-raising strategies.

Outcome Indicators:

We aim to evaluate the effectiveness of the Drama Club curriculum in fostering social emotional skills, non-violent conflict resolution, and hope, while decreasing radicalization and violence among 18- to 21-year-olds incarcerated at Rikers Island in New York City.

Surveys will assess:

- a) self-regulation (Difficulties in Emotion Regulation Scale, Short Form (Kaufman et al., 2016))
- b) non-violent conflict resolution (Self-Report Delinquency Scale (Elliott & Huizinga, 1989))
- c) self-efficacy (Generalized Self Efficacy scale (GSE), Schwarzer & Jerusalem, 1995)
- d) empowerment (Self-report measures for leadership behavior, community engagement, leadership efficacy, and self-esteem (Eisman et al., 2016))
- e) hope (Hopelessness Scale for Children (Kazdin, French, Unis, Esveldt-Dawson, & Sherick, 1983))
- f) connectedness (Self-report measure related to sense of belonging and support)

Data Collection Method and Timeframe:

To assess the effectiveness of Drama Club, we will conduct anonymous pre-post surveys with youth participating in Drama Club programming at RNDC and RMSC, Rikers Island. Data collection will happen in waves, corresponding with each Drama Club cohort; there can be as many as 25 youth per cohort. Youth will complete pencil and paper surveys, administered by the research team, on day one of the program – prior to participation in the Drama Club curriculum. The research team will then return to Rikers Island the week after the final cumulative performance for youth to complete post-intervention surveys.

Data to assess the reach of awareness-raising efforts will be drawn from PRX's multimedia platforms. We anticipate being able to collect total listens, total downloads, locations, unique listeners, total time spent listening, and highest-ranking episodes. We are in negotiations with (b)(6) but from their efforts we would assess circulation, clicks, unique visitors to their site, general location of IP addresses, and the number of times their pieces were shared.

7. What is the purpose/objective of this effort?

We aim to evaluate the effectiveness of a youth-focused intervention. Drama Club NYC, fosters social emotional skill-set building, non-violent conflict resolution, and hope, while decreasing radicalization and violence among 18- to 21-year-olds incarcerated at Rikers Island. If found to be effective, the ultimate goal is to inform program implementation and dissemination to similar facilities across the country.

8. Summary of planned activities (e.g., description of the activities, when and where activities will be conducted, and individuals who will host the activities.):

Drama Club will be implemented with young men at the Robert N. Davoren Center (RNDC), a facility that specifically houses 18- to 21-year-old men. Opened in 1972, the facility can house approximately 2,200 people. Until 2018, RNDC incarcerated 16- and 17-year-olds, too, however they were moved to detention centers that year as a result of New York's "Raise the Age" law that raised the age of criminal responsibility to 18 and prohibited the incarceration of minors in adult jails. AND, we will also work with young women ages 18 to 21 at the Rose M. Singer Center (RMSC) or Rosie's. This is an 800-bed facility opened in 1988 that includes a 25-bed baby nursery.

Drama Club currently operates at RNDC and RMSC two days per week. We aim to expand implementation by 50%. Note that the COVID-19 pandemic dramatically impacted Drama Club's programs at Rikers Island because of restrictions regarding who could enter the facilities. Drama Club is up and running at Rikers Island and we anticipate their engagement to return to pre-pandemic levels.

The research team will evaluate Drama Club via pre-post surveys (described below).

Finally, we aim to raise awareness at the community level about the risk and protective factors associated with radicalization and violent extremism by storytelling – sharing the lived experiences of youth who are, or have formerly been, incarcerated – with our award-winning multimedia partners, Ear Hustle are currently in negotiations with the (b)(6) Ear Hustle and (b)(6) will be conducting interviews for their respective outlets. Not intended to be a research activity, these interviews may be considered for secondary data analyses at a later date. Should we move in that direction, we will work submit the appropriate documentation to Michigan State University and DHS institutional review boards for review and approval prior to any transcription or analysis. Participants will be de-identified.

9. Will members of the public (any individuals outside of DHS or the Federal government) be engaged in the proposed activities?

Yes  No

10. Will any participants from vulnerable populations or populations requiring special consideration(s) (e.g., prisoners, pregnant women/neonates, children, socially or financially disadvantaged persons, or persons with physical or mental disabilities) be the focus for involvement in the effort?

\*Please note that DHS affords detainees the same additional provisions and considerations as a prisoner population when involved in research.*

Yes  No

11. Description of participants and recruitment procedures:

Example Description: 250 voluntary participants will be recruited from a population of college students and local first responders. Participants will range in age from 18-35 and will consist of both males and females in good physical health.

Participation in Drama Club is completely voluntary so we anticipate and will account for a self-selection bias. To evaluate the effectiveness of the Drama Club intervention for incarcerated youth, we will conduct anonymous/de-identified pre-post surveys with incarcerated youth ages 18 to 21 years old participating in Drama Club intervention program at the Robert N. Davoren Center (RNDC) and the Rose M. Singer Center (RMSC), Rikers Island, New York City. RNDC serves men, while RMSC serves women. The proportion of trans and nonbinary people incarcerated in these facilities is unknown, but likely not insignificant given the disproportionate rate of incarceration in the LGBTQ community.

12. Will participants be compensated for their involvement in the project?

Yes No

If yes, please provide the type of compensation and when participants will receive it:

We cannot provide cash incentives to participants to thank them for their time and participation. Instead, to be culturally agile, responsive, and consistent with Rikers Island policies, we will offer graphic novels that “meets participants” needs. Reading level and native language will therefore be a non-issue.

13. Is data being collected or accessed?

Yes No

If so, what type(s) of data will be collected or accessed, will identifiers be provided/recorded with the data, how will the data be stored (i.e., on DHS or non-DHS servers/property), and how data will be used/analyzed (to include individuals who will have access to the analyzed data/final report); i.e., internal review only, publication, presentation of results at a professional meeting, etc.

*If data will be procured from a commercially available source, please provide the name of the source and the type of data-sharing agreement in place:

Youth will complete anonymous pencil and paper surveys on day one (1) of their participation in the Drama Club program. The research team will return to Rikers Island one (1) week after the final performance (approximately 12 weeks later) for youth to complete post-intervention surveys. Surveys will assess: a) self-regulation, b) non-violent conflict resolution; c) self-efficacy; d) empowerment; e) hope; and, f) connectedness. The surveys will be brief (@10 to 15 minutes) and tailored to a third grade reading level. Participants will be assented prior survey administration and a script will be read aloud indicating that they can skip questions should they desire. Further, should a participant need the survey to be read aloud, we will accommodate and we also have the capacity to provide a Spanish and/or Arabic iteration should the need arise.

14. Will Personally Identifiable Information (PII) be collected?

Yes  No

If so, please list the types of PII that will be collected (i.e., names, date of birth, phone numbers, addresses, etc.):

Surveys will be anonymous. We will not collect any PII. We will abide by institutional safety protocols for survey administration, including appropriate distance for privacy and collection of survey writing instruments. Survey participation will be strictly voluntary, participants may skip any questions they prefer not to answer (as noted above), and they will be administered at a mutually agreed upon time and place. To ensure safety, any disclosure of potential harm to self or others will be immediately relayed to Rikers Island staff before the research staff leaves the premises

Undergraduate Courses

SW 491 (Michigan State University, East Lansing): Family & Community Violence

Psychology 111 (University of Michigan, Ann Arbor): Introductory broad survey course to psychology that explores various theoretical bases for understanding human behavior including; biological processes, sensation and perception, learning and memory as well as theories of personality, psychopathology, cognitive, and social development.

Psychology 200 (University of Michigan, Ann Arbor): Independent Study in Psychological Issues

Developmental Psychology 250 (University of Michigan, Ann Arbor): Introduction to the milestones of human development from conception to death grounded in research and developmental theories. The physical, cognitive, and social growth of normative development is examined from a cultural context to identify rich diversity with attention to genetics, parenting, peer groups, and schooling that impact developmental trajectory. Implications for child-rearing, education, and social policy-making are also examined to facilitate the application of knowledge to meaningful problems and challenges across the lifespan.

Psychology 325/American Culture 306, 319, and 321 “The Detroit Initiative” (University of Michigan, Ann Arbor): This Triade of courses covers Community Research including research methodologies that are useful in learning about and working with and in communities (community assessment, data analysis, and asset mapping), Empowering Families and Communities where undergraduate students are introduced to the principles and practices of social psychology by focusing on themes of empowerment and prevention from an influential lens grounded in the social ecology (racism, culture, and inequality/inequity) to facilitate understanding of community-based programming, and service delivery to improve the well-being of children and families, and Practicum in Multi-Cultural Community that is an experiential field course requiring 4 hours of service learning per week along with a class component twice a week to integrate experience, with theory and practice.

Psychology 323 (University of Michigan, Ann Arbor): Field Practicum in Research Techniques for Psychology as a Social Science.(Independent Study).

Psychology 327 (University of Michigan, Ann Arbor): Faculty Directed Early Research for Psychology as a Social Science (Independent Study)

Educational Psychology 356 (University of Michigan, Ann Arbor): Filled in at the last minute at the request of Director of Undergraduate Psychology.

Psychology of Adolescence 458 (University of Michigan, Ann Arbor); Introductory course that provides an overview of theory and research regarding adolescent development and emerging young adulthood including addressing the biological, cognitive, and social domains relative to family, peers, and school influence and both normative and problematic psychosocial development.

BSW Field Instructor 488L4 (School of Social Work, Eastern Michigan University)

Graduate Level Courses

SW 851: Clinical Social Work Practice II (Michigan State University, East Lansing); Conceptual frameworks for clinical social work practice with families and couples. Intervention strategies, techniques, and practice issues in prevention and treatment.

Psychology 613/614: GSI for Kai Cortina at the University of Michigan, Ann Arbor, MI): Advanced Statistical Methods I and II

Social Work Evaluation and Research: Qualitative and Statistical Methods SWRK 430 – Previously Advanced Action Research, (School of Social Work, Eastern Michigan University, Ypsilanti, MI.

Social Action and Research Evaluation SW8048 (School of Social Work, Wayne State University): This three credit course is an advanced year research course. The course introduces students to concepts, practices, and methodological approaches that are central to empowerment and action-oriented research and evaluation. Students are prepared to intervene into communities, institutions, neighborhoods, and other social groups through the use of empirically substantiated social science techniques.

Community Assessment SW8025 (School of Social Work, Wayne State University): This one credit course takes a deeper dive into Social Action Research and was supplemental to Social Action Research

Dynamics and Intervention in Family Violence SW 8570 (School of Social Work, Wayne State University, Detroit, MI): This three credit elective course focuses on the dynamics, assessment, and intervention in families where various types/forms of violence occur. To competently serve families, social workers must understand the theories and issues surrounding family violence. Students are encouraged to explore their own attitudes about family violence, as well as public policy that either facilitates or imposes barriers to effective prevention/intervention efforts. Students are challenged to critically think about and analyze social, political, and organizational factors affecting service delivery and methods employed in models of intervention and prevention. The forms of interpersonal violence and abuse covered will include child abuse and neglect, sibling abuse, dating violence, spousal, cohabiting, and elder abuse.

Curricular and SSW Platform Development

Wayne State University, Detroit, MI: Innovation in Community, Policy, and Leadership (I-CPL) concentration. The I-CPL concentration contextualizes social work master level student learning into three (3) platforms of practice including developing and sustaining effective communities, developing and sustaining effective policies, and developing and sustaining effective organizations through leadership. Urban social planning, community development, policy analysis and advocacy, program development, and system coordination are focal.

Wayne State University, Detroit, MI: PI for “Citizenship for Health”. The Citizenship for Health initiative arose from activities within the Center for the Study of Citizenship at Wayne State University and the leadership team includes scholars from Pharmacy and Health Sciences, Integrative Bioscience, History and the Center for the Study of Citizenship, Oakland County JSD, and Social Work. My current work is focused on the development of a university – community co-taught course around community engagement methodology, including deliberative democratic processes.

Dear Drs. McCauley & Smith-Darden,

Drama Club is pleased to partner with Michigan State University School of Social Work and offer our enthusiastic support for your proposal, "Drama Club: Sparking Creative Problem-Solving for Violence Prevention," to the U.S. Department of Homeland Security (DHS) for the Targeted Violence and Terrorism Prevention Grant Program. We understand that you are applying for funding to support and rigorously evaluate our programs at Drama Club for individuals who are incarcerated in New York City's Rikers Island.

Drama Club's mission is to consistently care for youth and emerging adults - especially those who are incarcerated or court involved - by creating space for them to thrive, using Improv as their guide. Improv is short for improvisational theater, which is acting without a script. Josie founded Drama Club in 2013 after spending two years teaching theater at Sing Sing, a maximum-security prison for men about 45 minutes north of NYC. She also acted in plays alongside the men in her classes. It was through these experiences that she got an up-close view of life behind bars and was struck by the similarity of the stories from the men, the prevailing poverty that leads people to prison, racial disparities in the system, and the school-to-prison pipeline. When the men felt comfortable enough with Josie, they finally asked, "Why are you here all the time? What are you doing?" She shared her desire to do theater programming with youth who were in detention, that she felt this was a perfect opportunity for an "artistic intervention," and that youth in these centers didn't have enough to do. They all agreed. "God, I wish I'd had something like that when I was locked up as a kid," was the prevailing sentiment.

In the last (almost) decade, we have seen the power of Improv in contributing to positive outcomes for Drama Clubbers. Countless young people have participated in classes, rehearsals, and performances. Throughout this process, they have increased their social capital and sense of belonging, become more comfortable with voicing their opinions and taking healthy risks, and gained a more positive and stronger self-concept. Our work is trauma-informed and rooted in the science of play, which is particularly relevant for youth and emerging adults who experienced adultification and exposure to violence in their communities.

As part of this work, you plan to explore factors that are related to uptake and successful implementation of the program so that we better understand how Drama Club can be best delivered in diverse communities, especially with individuals who are incarcerated. You will also be documenting outcomes among our participants, including risk and protective factors for future engagement in violence. We are confident that our theory- and science-informed work is making a difference and this funding would provide critical resources for formal evaluation to contribute to the evidence base regarding strategies to prevent violence.

As part of this project, you (Drs McCauley and Smith-Darden) will oversee all research activities as Co PIs. Your team at Michigan State University School of Social Work will be responsible for data collection and analysis. Dr. Adam Brown (Co-Investigator) provides supervision for all research project staff. We will work collaboratively with you in Rikers Island facilities and outside of the project sites, including in shared efforts to make meaning of the data you collect. We look forward to working with your team to develop practice-based recommendations from the study's results. We will also inform the dissemination plan given our established partnerships in NYC and across the country. We understand Drama Club will receive $160,000 in non-discretionary funds over the two-year grant period to support this partnership and the implementation of the program.

We are thrilled that Drs. McCauley and Smith-Darden are excited about the innovation of Drama Club as a trauma-informed violence prevention strategy and look forward to DHS's positive response to their application.

Sincerely,

Dear Drs. McCauley & Smith-Darden,

Our team at the Ear Hustle podcast, from PRX's Radiotopia, is delighted to partner with Michigan State University School of Social Work and offer our enthusiastic support for your proposal titled "Drama Club: Sparking Creative Problem-Solving for Violence Prevention," to the U.S. Department of Homeland Security (DHS). We understand that you are applying for funding to support and rigorously evaluate Drama Club, which uses improvisational theater to foster non-violent conflict resolution and hope among youth incarcerated in New York City's Rikers Island. We understand that a central focus of this grant is raising awareness, and we are uniquely positioned to partner with you in that goal as our storytelling on Ear Hustle has been heard more than 60 million times across the globe, and our combined social platforms, along with Radiotopia's, collectively reach approximately 350,000 people.

Ear Hustle launched in 2017 as the first podcast created and produced in prison, featuring stories of the daily realities of life inside California's San Quentin State Prison, shared by those living it. Co-founded by Bay Area artist Nigel Poor alongside Earlonne Woods and Antwan Williams — who were incarcerated at San Quentin at the time — the podcast now tells stories from inside prison and from the outside, post-incarceration. In 2019, Rahsaan "New York" Thomas joined Ear Hustle as a co-host inside San Quentin.

In 2020, Ear Hustle was named a finalist for a Pulitzer Prize in audio reporting for bringing audiences "a consistently surprising and beautifully crafted series on life behind bars." In 2021, Ear Hustle received an Alfred I. duPont-Columbia University Award for "shatter[ing] the myths about serving time and what happens afterwards." Ear Hustle has also received honors from the Third Coast International Audio Festival, the Moran Center for Youth Advocacy, and is a two-time Peabody Award nominee.

With this collaboration, we look forward to spending time in New York City with Drama Club and at Rikers Island to extend our work from California to the East Coast. Now in our ninth season, we've set our sights on telling even more stories beyond those in San Quentin, including from women's prisons, juvenile facilities, and from communities impacted by incarceration. We understand that, if funded, we would receive $80,000 in non-discretionary funds over the two-year grant period. We believe in the power of stories to create connection, spark hope, and change minds, all of which are powerful buffers against violence. This collaboration blending research and art has the potential to further strengthen our collective impact.

The Ear Hustle team extends its enthusiastic support for this application and looks forward to a positive response from the U.S. Department of Homeland Security (DHS).

Dear Drs. McCauley & Smith-Darden,

I am writing to share my highest recommendation for your proposal titled “Drama Club: Sparking Creative Problem-Solving for Violence Prevention,” to the U.S. Department of Homeland Security. Your proposal will evaluate Drama Club, an innovative organization using improvisational theater to help youth and young adults thrive, especially those who are incarcerated and court-involved. I have followed Drama Club’s work closely since its founding in 2013 and am inspired by how it has positively impacted youth and young adults incarcerated in New York City. I cannot think of a team more highly deserving of this award.

My recommendation is bolstered by a 40-year career focused on the humane and decent treatment of the men, women, and children who are incarcerated in our systems, as well as community-based alternatives to incarceration in NYC and Washington, D.C. I have served as the Commissioner of the New York City Department of Probation, senior advisor to the New York City Mayor’s Office of Criminal Justice, and the Commissioner of the New York City Department of Correction.

I have seen Drama Club in action on numerous occasions, whether it is performances on Rikers Island or community theaters, or community events at which they highlight the work that incarcerated people are engaged in with their help. They exhibit a deep belief in building on the artistic (and other) strengths of the people they are involved with in an authentically humanistic way.

In addition to my practice experience, I have extensive expertise in developing and using research to inform policy and practice. I founded the Justice Policy Institute, an organization dedicated to leveraging research to develop workable solutions to problems plaguing juvenile and criminal justice systems. I served as senior research fellow at Harvard University’s Kennedy School of Government and am currently a Senior Research Scientist at the Columbia School of Social Work and Senior Fellow at the Columbia Justice Lab. Research and evaluation are critical for sparking change in our criminal justice system and this award would provide needed resources to not only expand the evidence base, but to expand the reach and impact Drama Club can make in reducing and preventing violence in NYC and beyond.

I am honored to provide my support for your application. Your partnership with Drama Club and your track record as prolific violence prevention scholars speak to your ability to carry out this important project. I look forward to the Department of Homeland Security’s positive reception to your innovative proposal.

Sincerely,

CERTIFICATION REGARDING LOBBYING

Certification for Contracts, Grants, Loans, and Cooperative Agreements

The undersigned certifies, to the best of his or her knowledge and belief, that:

(1) No Federal appropriated funds have been paid or will be paid, by or on behalf of the undersigned, to any person for influencing or attempting to influence an officer or employee of an agency, a Member of Congress, an officer or employee of Congress, or an employee of a Member of Congress in connection with the awarding of any Federal contract, the making of any Federal grant, the making of any Federal loan, the entering into of any cooperative agreement, and the extension, continuation, renewal, amendment, or modification of any Federal contract, grant, loan, or cooperative agreement.

(2) If any funds other than Federal appropriated funds have been paid or will be paid to any person for influencing or attempting to influence an officer or employee of any agency, a Member of Congress, an officer or employee of Congress, or an employee of a Member of Congress in connection with this Federal contract, grant, loan, or cooperative agreement, the undersigned shall complete and submit Standard Form-LLL, "Disclosure of Lobbying Activities," in accordance with its instructions.

(3) The undersigned shall require that the language of this certification be included in the award documents for all subawards at all tiers (including subcontracts, subgrants, and contracts under grants, loans, and cooperative agreements) and that all subrecipients shall certify and disclose accordingly. This certification is a material representation of fact upon which reliance was placed when this transaction was made or entered into. Submission of this certification is a prerequisite for making or entering into this transaction imposed by section 1352, title 31, U.S. Code. Any person who fails to file the required certification shall be subject to a civil penalty of not less than $10,000 and not more than $100,000 for each such failure.

Statement for Loan Guarantees and Loan Insurance

The undersigned states, to the best of his or her knowledge and belief, that:

If any funds have been paid or will be paid to any person for influencing or attempting to influence an officer or employee of any agency, a Member of Congress, an officer or employee of Congress, or an employee of a Member of Congress in connection with this commitment providing for the United States to insure or guarantee a loan, the undersigned shall complete and submit Standard Form-LLL, "Disclosure of Lobbying Activities," in accordance with its instructions. Submission of this statement is a prerequisite for making or entering into this transaction imposed by section 1352, title 31, U.S. Code.
