[Announcer]: The oath of office. Every Supreme Court Justice takes an oath to play no favorites, to take no sides, but Tim Black may have trouble taking that oath. That's because Tim Black declared that his seat would be labor's seat so that he would take labor's side. The Dayton Daily News called his declaration offensive. Maureen O'Connor can take the Supreme Court oath because she knows an impartial judge takes no sides.

Stratton and O'Connor, they know that to be an impartial judge, there are no sides.
